SUBURB'S CHRISTMAS

Christmas carol services started on the Suburb with the Institutes international service in the Free Church with carols and readings of 17 nations sung and played by Institute students.

They ranged from a full choir the Koran by a Moroccan student for the Japanese carols to a very to an enchanting candlelit professional solo from a Turkish celebration of Hanukka by students student and moving readings from from Israel and their families.

St Jukes Nativity play

Members of St Jukes Sunday School performed their nativity play on Christmas Eve. Mary, Joseph, angels, kings and shepherds alike were beautifully dressed and remained very composed, but the animals were a centre of attention with their superb heads made by Linda Ayers.

Gertrude Porteus, Lorna Page, Jill Ambrose and Mary Charras stage managed and the service was, of course, conducted by Rev.
Michael Porteus with Peter Lea-Cox at the organ. Young members provided instrumental music rehearsed and conducted by Helen Roose. Barbara Honeyball and Susan Heath rehearsed the Sunday School choir. R.W.

Emma Queralta as Mary, Elizabeth Empage as Joseph.

Animals were played by brother and sister teams. Lowing cattle by Victoria and Elizabeth Moss, donkey and sheep by Hugh and Andrew Cox. Nerina Queralta played the dove.

Other parts included Gabriel, Kath Empage; Innkeeper, Stephanie Ambrose; Kings and pages were mostly sisters and their younger brothers - Sarah and James Page - Clare and Richard Hoyle - Sarah Oakley kept Frédéric Wakefield in check.

CRAFT FAIR

The seventh annual Craft Fair in the Free Church Hall attracted 8 to 900 residents with its display of crafts for sale on 34 stalls.

Wares ranged from Diane Red-house's enamel jewellery to the teazle hedgehogs made by Molly Trapp, who also produced hobby horses and knitted frogs!

The Fair is organised by R.A.
Council member Sue Pearl, who demonstrated her spinning wheel, and silversmith Veronica Shaw.
Although each craftsman hopes to profit by the occasion, it is, in itself, not commercial.
Entrance money was collected for the Family Holiday Association.

Other Suburb residents with craft stalls included: Helen Cohen who throws pots in Heathgate, Molly Cattle from Brooklands Rise showed her colourful and beautifully made quilted artefacts. Teddy bears were popular from Miss Smith, Mrs. Saint and Mrs. Guppy.

Jan Lilley of Hogarth Hill had lovely earthy pottery and Christine Barrow from Addison Way did well with hand made cards for Christmas. Another Christmas stall was that of Beryl Porter-Rae, well known to many as receptionist at the Health Centre, who sold iced cakes. Other food stalls were run by Marjorie Harris and Yvonne Oliver.

The Youth Club provided refreshments throughout the day and were particularly persistent but welcome salesmen. RW

WHOOOPS AGAIN!

Christopher Gotch has asked us to point out that there was a printing error in the telephone number given in the Green Leaflet distributed with our last issue. The Trust apologises to the lady whose number was given and would like to remind residents that the correct number is 455 1066.

Nicki Landau and daughter enjoy the party.

CHILDREN CENTRE ACTIVITIES

The need being fulfilled by the Pavilion Children's Centre was demonstrated again just before Christmas when the Pavilion Christmas party had to be split into two sessions.

Twice, then, on Dec 15 Father Christmas appeared to be assembled 0-3 years olds and their mothers and twice Charlotte Wager the Centre's new helper had to don her Busby suit.

The Children's Centre is now open three mornings a week and there is a mother-baby club on Wednesday afternoons. Mothers with babies under one wishing to join should phone Judith Russell on 455 6400.

Before the start of the new term on January 16, the Centre was running Holiday Workshops for 6-8yr olds and 9-12yr olds. The workshops were run by young-art specialist Naomi, and the Pavilion team. Subjects included clay modelling, collage, junk modelling and puppet making. RW
