

HOME GROWN PANTO FOR THE SUBURB

Hampstead Garden Suburb Dramatic Society's seasonal entertainment has been timed to coincide with half-term, when they will perform "There was an old woman..."

Loosely based on the nursery rhyme boot-dweller, the pantomime has been written for the Society by Terry Rogers, who is also directing. It features all the usual panto characters, of course — complete with Dame, Principal Boy (called George), beautiful Princess, and two villains — a dastardly Duke and the Mountain King — and not forgetting Rover. We shan't tell you what he is, but given that Terry's last show included a twelve-foot high wooden horse, you can expect it to be fairly large.

There will be nine performances in all, dates of which are given below, at the Institute Theatre in Central Square. Demand for tickets is high, so you can book in advance from Mrs Berg on 455 6558.

The Society is also running a competition, which is open to anyone under 16. The two pictures printed below are identical — or are they? There are in fact ten differences between the two. If you can spot them, mark the picture on the right, and send it to the address below. If your name is the first to be picked from the bag, you will win a personal recorder and two tickets to the pantomime. Two runners-up will also receive prizes of two free tickets each to the first matinée on 16th February. Closing date for entries is 9th February.

Performance dates:
 Friday 15th February at 8.00pm
 Saturday 16th February at 3.00pm & 8.00pm
 Wednesday 20th February at 8.00pm
 Thursday 21st February at 8.00pm
 Friday 22nd February at 6.00pm & 8.30pm
 Saturday 23rd February at 3.00pm & 8.00pm.

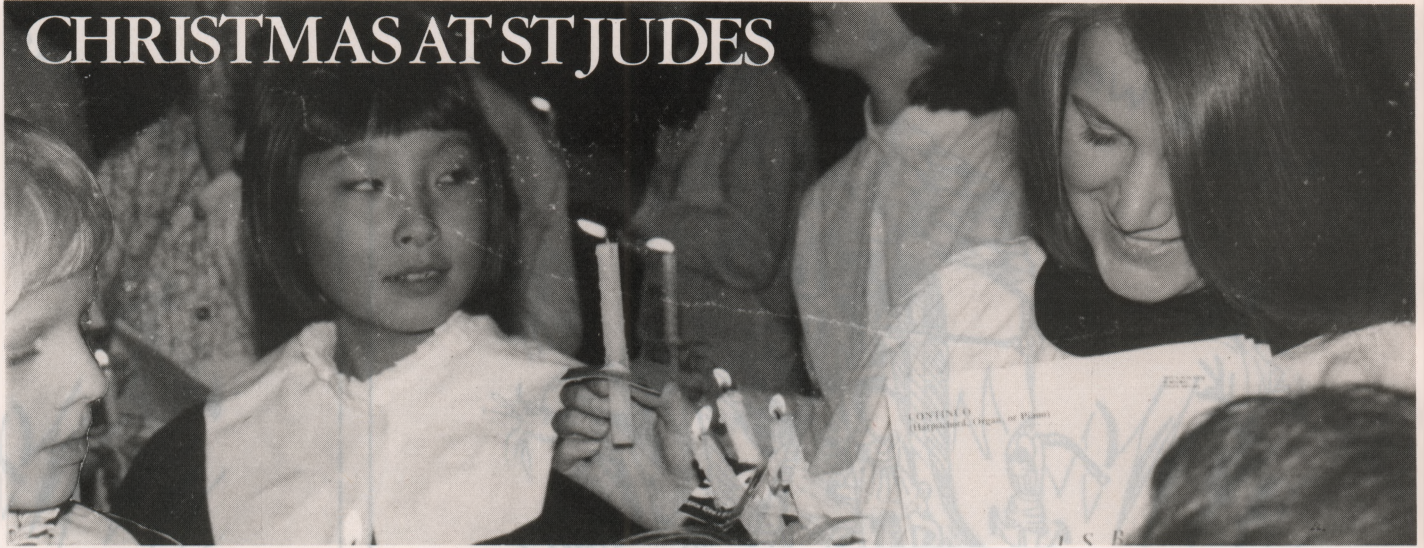

To "Spot the Difference",
 6 York House, Highbury Crescent, London N5 1RP.
