Political Garden Parties

The garden of Councillor Jenny Mansell's house in Corringham Road was the scene of a successful Labour Garden Party in September; seen here Jenny Mansell, Hope Roper, Robert Sheldon MP and Eileen Whelan.

Unusually for the summer of '88, the sun also shone for another political party on the Suburb, but this was one with a difference. This being that the SDP barbecue in July, attended by Rosie Barnes MP and family, raised money to be divided between the Party and the North London Hospice, represented by John Enderby.

Sally Molnick, Chairwoman of Barnet SDP, was thrilled by the success of the idea, some 60 people attended and raised £300, she hopes to make it a regular event at her Northway home and share the proceeds between the SDP and different charities.
